TERMINAL DECREE IS HANDED DOWN; ROADS GAIN POINT

Interlocutory Order by U. S. Circuit Court, Delivered Today, Fails to Expressly Prohibit Arbitrary Within 100-Mile Zone—New Agreements to Be Filed.

Judges Sanborn and Smith Agree on Ruling, While Judge Hook Vigorously Dissents and Insists That Injunction Be Issued.

Final Decision to Be Entered When Proprietary Lines Have Filed New Contracts, Which Must Be Done Within 60 Days.

The Government suffered another setback in its fight against the bridge arbiters at St. Louis, when Judges Sanborn and Smith of the United States Circuit Court handed down Monday an interlocutory decree interpreting the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the ouster suit against the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis.

In a strong dissenting opinion Judge Hook charged his associates on the bench with sustaining the views of the Terminal Association and the railroads with respect to the meaning of the Supreme Court's decision directing the abolition of the bridge arbitrary at St. Louis.

Crow Thinks Hook Is Right. Edward C. Crow, attorney for the Government in the Terminal case, was at his farm in Eureka, Mo., Monday, and did not see copies of the interlocutory decree and the opinions of Judges Hook and Sanborn. The substance of these documents was reported to him by a Post-Dispatch reporter. He said:

"I think, of course, that Judge Hook is right in his dissenting opinion. The interlocutory decree is not final, and the Government will be heard on the final appeal. We are going to keep on fighting, and if the final decree is not satisfactory, we will appeal again to the Supreme Court. Possibly some steps may be taken on the interlocutory decree. The Government will not let up on this fight until the bridge arbitrary is completely abolished."

Supreme Court's Order. The Supreme Court, in its opinion handed down April 23, 1912, directed the Circuit Court to prepare an interlocutory decree ordering the Terminal Railroad Association to reorganize its contracts and agreements with the 14 proprietary railroads, then constituting the Terminal, to provide for the admission of all railroads into the Terminal on equal terms, to open the facilities to all railroads not members of the association, to eliminate the agreements restricting terminal lines to the use of Terminal facilities only, to abolish the practice of billing goods to East St. Louis and then rebilling to St. Louis, to abolish the arbitrary, and to refer disputes to the Court for settlement.

The decree handed down by Judges Sanborn and Smith was in conformance with the direction of the Supreme Court. The case went to the Circuit judges after Edward C. Crow, counsel for the Government, had objected to an interlocutory decree prepared by United States District Judge Jacob Triebel of Little Rock.

Crow Appealed From Ruling. Crow appealed to the Supreme Court and got an order setting aside Triebel's decree and directing the Circuit judges to assume jurisdiction in the case.

The interlocutory decree handed down by Judges Sanborn and Smith is virtually an affirmation of the decree handed down by Judge Triebel a year ago, and objected to by Crow on the ground that it did not go far enough to expressly prohibit every vestige of the bridge arbitrary at St. Louis.

Circuit Judge Adams did not sit in the case on account of illness. The final decree will be entered after the Terminal and the proprietary railroads file their new agreements with the Court, which must be done within 60 days.

Upholds Interlocutory Decree. Judge Sanborn wrote a brief opinion upholding the interlocutory decree. He said that the Government would be heard on the contracts and agreements as submitted by the Terminal Association, and he did not think it was opportune to discuss the final decree at this time.

"We agree," he said, "and shall insist that the true intent and meaning of the direction of the Supreme Court that 'any special or so-called arbitrary charge for the use of the terminal facilities, in respect to traffic originating within the so-called 100-mile area, that is not equal and in like manner applied in respect of all other traffic of like character originating outside of that area, shall be abolished and of every other direction of that court in its opinion and mandate in this case must be carried into complete effect by the new contract and final decree."

"In our opinion," he adds, "the inter-

SCIENTISTS TRYING TO READ PROFESSOR'S BRAIN

Examination Made as Requested in His Will—Believed Thoughts Are Recorded.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 16.—Scientists in the Harvard Medical School are trying to read the brain of the late Dr. Maurice Howe Richardson, ex-member of the faculty of that institution. The examinations are being conducted secretly in the neuropathological department and under the direction of Dr. E. E. Southard.

Dr. Richardson was a firm believer that thoughts make definite lines in the brain, and the present examination is being conducted in accordance with his wishes as expressed in his will. He believed that a person's thoughts were recorded and were at the time of thinking visible on the outer walls of the cerebrum. He held that if these lines were read and the seat of the thought located it would make it possible to correct defects in the brain by surgical operations.

He said it was the only coat he had to be buried in and he couldn't see why some folks couldn't mind their own business. He was taken to the inebriate ward at the city dispensary.

MOROS AGAIN ARE ROUTED; 6 IN U. S. FORCE ARE KILLED

Jolo Island Natives Forced to Flee From Mountain in a Battle at Night.

THIRD FIGHT IN WEEK

Scattered Rebels Pursued by Brig.-Gen. Pershing—American Losses Total 11.

By Associated Press.
MANILA, June 16.—Complete route of the rebellious Moros on Mount Bagaak was accomplished by the American forces during the night with the loss of six men killed and seven wounded.

Reports of the engagement reaching here by wireless from the island of Jolo are but meager. All of the Americans killed were members of the several companies of scouts. In the first advance upon the mountain last week the Moros were nearly dislodged from their positions. The number of dead among the Moros is not known.

Last night's battle began just before dark. The fighting was fierce, the natives repeating their desperate sorties with bolos, but the American advance was so determined that the Moros stole away, and left the mountain clear. They are now at large, and will be pursued ceaselessly.

Pershing Praised Troops.
Brigadier-General John J. Pershing, commanding the Department in Mindanao, is leading the forces, and is enthusiastic in his praise of the conduct of his men.

The killing of the six Americans today makes the death total in routing the forces of the Sultan of Jolo. The first attack was on Thursday, when an American captain and three Philippine scouts perished. It is believed that the losses on the part of the enemy have been heavy. A second fight, it has been learned, occurred Friday, and one man was killed.

The attacks were a part of a plan, formed carefully a month ago, in the interest of permanent peace in the archipelago. In the north disarming had been effected peacefully, and it had been hoped that through the good offices of the Sultan of Jolo, the savage Mohammedan tribes in the Jolo group and in Mindanao might likewise be induced to give up their weapons.

Negotiations Prove Failure.
Negotiations were carried on with the various Dattos with the active sympathy and support of the Sultan of Jolo, but recent advice made it appear that the disarmament policy could be carried out only by force.

Through their pearl fisheries and other valuable resources the natives in the Jolo group are wealthy, and would have little difficulty in replacing the archaic weapons they now possess with improved firearms secured from nearby Borneo, thereby, making them more formidable than ever.

Related Report Tells of Battle With Moros Friday.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The War Department had no report today of the latest fighting on the island of Jolo. A related report from Brigadier-General Pershing received today gave further details of the fighting last week, as follows:

"Friday at noon, Capt. Patrick Maylan of the Philippine Scouts, with the Thirty-first and Fourteenth companies, Philippine Scouts, took Mount Dunga after a hand-to-hand fight. One scout, Thirty-first Company, killed. Mountain-side overprecipitous. Gun carried up by hand."

DELLA FOX DEAD; ONCE A MUSICAL COMEDY FAVORITE

St. Louis Actress Set the Country to Whistling "the Kissing Song."

STAR IN POPULAR PLAYS

Ran Away as Child to a 'Show,' Made First Public Appearance When 8 Years Old.

A dispatch to the Post-Dispatch Monday afternoon, told of the death in New York of Della Fox, St. Louis actress, who, a dozen years ago, was a reigning favorite in musical comedy. The funeral will be held in St. Louis, the dispatch stated.

W. F. Fox of the St. James Hotel and C. A. Fox of 5006 Columbia avenue are brothers of the actress.

Acute indigestion was the cause of death. Early in 1912 she was seriously ill, and underwent an operation, and for a time she was not expected to recover. Della Fox, who began her theatrical career in St. Louis, was at one time the most popular comic opera soubrette on the American stage.

Miss Fox was nearly 41 years old. She was married in 1900 to Jacob D. Levy, a New York diamond broker, who was for

SUIT FOR DIVORCE BY MRS. GARDINER IS WITHDRAWN

Attorney Says That Her Husband Is "Just as Near and Dear to Her as Ever."

Mrs. Olive Gardiner withdrew her divorce suit against William W. Gardiner, a dentist, at Clayton, Monday, and her lawyer, Ben Lindsay, told a Post-Dispatch reporter in his hearing that the action was taken because Dr. Gardiner was "just as near and dear as ever" to her.

This action was one step toward the straightening of a tangle of lawsuits involving the Gardiners and Mrs. Georgiana Miller of 5425 Maple avenue, wealthy widow of a railroad official.

Mrs. Gardiner is suing Mrs. Miller for $100,000 on the allegation that Mrs. Miller alienated Dr. Gardiner's affections. The suit was taken toward withdrawing this suit.

Shortly before the withdrawal of the divorce suit, it became known that witnesses have told, in sworn depositions, of a will said to have been made by Mrs. Miller, leaving the greater part of her estate to Dr. Gardiner, who was also to be executor of the $200,000 estate.

A proceeding instituted by Mrs. Miller's daughter, Mrs. Marie Connor, for the appointment of a guardian for Mrs. Miller, has been continued until July 14, to obtain the attendance of witnesses from other cities. The principal allegation made by Mrs. Connor is that her mother drank to excess.

Mrs. Gardiner and her lawyer went to Clayton Monday morning, and after a brief conference with Judge Wurdeman, the withdrawal of the divorce suit was announced.

"Tell the boys you dropped your suit," Attorney Lindsay suggested to his client, as they left the courtroom, and set reporters. She hesitated, and Lindsay said, "The reason Mrs. Gardiner doesn't wish a divorce now is that Dr. Gardiner is as dear and dear to her now as he ever was." Another lawyer in the case, B. L. Matthews, supplemented this by saying he believed there would be a reconciliation if Dr. Gardiner so desired.

Gardiner, a dentist, was stated when he heard of his wife's action, but he

MOTOR CYCLE HITS WOMAN; SHE HAS FRACTURED SKULL

Mrs. Gerda Ruth Critically Injured on Way to Work in Factory.

Mrs. Gerda Ruth, a widow, 28 years old, was knocked down by a motor cycle ridden by John M. Jackson of 4148 Washington avenue at 8 o'clock Monday morning at Sixteenth and Locust streets. Her skull was fractured, and she was taken to the city hospital, where her condition was pronounced critical.

Mrs. Ruth resides at 4140 College avenue, and is employed in the neckwear factory of Ely & Walker, on Washington avenue. She was on her way to work when the accident occurred.

Jackson, who is an underground foreman for the Union Electric Light and Power Co., accompanied Mrs. Ruth to the city hospital in the automobile of a passerby, who offered his assistance when Mrs. Ruth was run down.

Jackson surrendered himself to the police, and gave a common-law bond of $50, signed by Elijah C. Freese, before Judge Miller of the Court of Criminal Correction to answer any charge that may be brought against him.

Jackson told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he was riding his motor cycle to work, and as he came east on Locust street Mrs. Ruth, who was walking north on Sixteenth, stepped from the curb to cross Locust street.

Jackson says that when he sounded his horn Mrs. Ruth became confused, first starting to step back on the pavement and later going ahead again, which brought her directly in front of the motor cycle. If she had stood still Jackson says, the accident would not have happened.

2-CENT FARE LAW ON BIG MISSOURI RAILROADS UPHELD

Supreme Court Holds It Confiscatory, However, as to Five Small Lines in State.

ARKANSAS AND W. VIRGINIA 2-CENT FARE ALSO VALID

Law Annulled in Case of St. Louis & Hannibal, Chicago Great Western, Q., O. & K. C., St. Joseph & Grand Island and Clinton & Springfield Lines.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Validity of 2-cent passenger laws and maximum freight rates in Missouri, West Virginia and Arkansas were upheld by the Supreme Court today in another series of decisions in the noted state rate cases. No decision was announced in the Kentucky case. In the Missouri case the great majority of rates contested by the railroads as confiscatory were held valid. State rates established in Oregon also were approved.

All claims that the state laws which were attacked interfered with the interstate commerce were swept aside, following the precedent set in the Minnesota rate decision a week ago.

In the majority of the Missouri cases and in the Arkansas case the Court held the railroads had presented too general data on which to base a claim that their property was being taken without compensation through the operation of the new rates.

The suits were brought to restrain the enforcement of the freight rate and passenger fare acts of the State of Missouri, passed Feb. 3, 1907, fixing the maximum fare for passengers at 1 cent a mile and also the orders of the Railroad Commission, made June 4, 1908, prescribing maximum freight and passenger rates.

Justice Hughes said in the West Virginia case that the question of interference with interstate commerce was decided in favor of the State for the reasons assigned in the Minnesota rate decision. No question of confiscation was presented in the West Virginia case.

A 215 the Supreme Court adjourned to October without announcing a decision in the intermountain rate cases or passing upon the application for a review of the Gompers-Mitchell-Morrison contempt of court cases.

The first of the 45 rate cases to reach the Supreme Court were the Missouri rate cases. In Missouri the 13 railroads, crossing the State, attacked, in separate suits, the validity of State law, fixing the maximum rate on freight and limiting the maximum rate on passengers to one cent a mile. Judge McPherson held that the rates were confiscatory of the railroads' property and therefore unconstitutional, but he declined to hold that they interfered with interstate commerce. Both the railroads and the State appealed to the Supreme Court, bringing in all 15 Missouri cases.

Two cases growing out of the "Burlington suit" were presented to the court in October, 1910, but they were restored to the docket for argument with the other Missouri cases in April, 1912. The State presented that Judge McPherson should not have apportioned expenses, as between state and interstate business, on a revenue basis, but rather on a car-mile, or ton-mile basis.

In the Missouri cases the State and the railroads had agreed upon the valuation of the railroads, upon which the percentage of income from rates was to be figured. No such agreement was reached in the Minnesota case, and a bitter contest arose there over the holding of Judge Sanborn that the fair valuation of a railroad property was its "cost of reproduction."

At the time the Missouri case was argued a brief was filed with the Supreme Court by Gov. Hadley of Missouri, Harmon of Ohio and Aldrich of Nebraska, defending the right of the states to fix intrastate rates. These Governors were appointed by the Governors' conference to intervene in the rate cases. Similar briefs were presented by Attorney-General and Railroad Commissioners of the states affected.

JUSTICE ARRESTED AS MOLESTER OF TELEGRAPH WIRES

Arthur Kleinsorge Accused of Making "Trouble" on Line and Collecting for Reporting It.

Arthur Kleinsorge, Justice of the Peace at Manchester, St. Louis County, is under arrest on a charge of molesting a switchboard of the Postal Telegraph Co., which was installed in his grocery at Manchester. The offense charged is a felony, punishable by a $500 fine or two years' imprisonment.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Chapin Monday made known the fact of the arrest, which followed an indictment secretly issued last Thursday. He explained that Kleinsorge, who was paid by the telegraph company for reporting "trouble" on its county wires from his store, is accused of having deliberately created such "trouble" himself, in order to swell his compensation from the company.

The "trouble" was caused, it is alleged, by the misplacing of wires in binding posts on the switchboard. An inspector of the company, detailed Saturday to discover the cause of the unusual amount of trouble occurring on the line, is said to have traced the difficulties to the Justice's grocery.

The switchboard has been in Kleinsorge's place for years, and was at no time considered a great convenience by the telegraph company. Kleinsorge, though not a skilled operator, had a sufficient command of the business to do the signaling necessary in reporting trouble.

made it clear that this elation was not caused by affection for her son, he said. "Reconciliation," he continued, in response to a question, "Not for me. Take it from me, there's no love lost between us. All that 'near and dear' business mentioned by her lawyer is simply hot air. The fact that an alienation suit is pending explains today's action, to my mind."

"She can't kiss herself back home now. It's too late."

Gardiner, who has been at Clayton nearly every day since his wife's suit was filed, said he had obtained no less than 25 depositions which he would have used if he had been required to defend the divorce suit. When asked whether he intended to use this testimony in a later suit of his own, he declined to answer.

Witnesses Tell of Will.

In depositions lately taken in the office of Special Commissioner Davis Biggs, witnesses told of seeing the copy of a will purporting to be that of Mrs. Miller.

The will, they said, was exhibited by Dr. Gardner, and it directs that Dr. Gardner is to get the bulk of the Miller estate in the event of Mrs. Miller's death.

According to the testimony of those who said Dr. Gardner had shown the instrument to them, the will was drawn by Mrs. Miller, a private physician, on May 3, about two years after Mrs. Miller's daughter had sued in the Probate Court for the appointment of a guardian.

The will was witnessed by Dr. Charles H. Hughes, brain specialist; Dr. Phil Heuer, Mrs. Miller's physician, and Mrs. Miller's nurse, witnesses said. It provided that Mrs. Connor should receive $10,000, George ("Bud") Miller $15,000 and Helen Miller, the youngest child, $8,000. The remainder of the estate, estimated to be worth about $135,000, was to go to Dr. Gardner, and he, under the terms of the will, would be executor of the estate without bond, according to the testimony. The money left to the children is to be placed in trust with the Title Guaranty Trust Co., the witnesses deposed.

Mrs. Gardner's divorce suit was instituted a few days after Mrs. Connor's guardianship suit against her mother. In the first petition, Mrs. Gardner charged that her husband was attentive to other women, but in an amended petition a short time afterward, she alleged that he had gone on journeys with Mrs. Miller, and had accompanied her to theaters and a circus in St. Louis, riding in her electric coupe.

GIRL IN SPEEDING AUTO WINS PLEA WITH POLICEMAN

Miss Elizabeth Halliday Tells of Pressing Engagement, and He Delays Arrest of Chauffeur.

Even if her chauffeur was arrested for speeding, Miss Elizabeth Halliday of 5138 Washington boulevard had the satisfaction of keeping her appointment Monday morning at the Young Woman's Christian Association, 1407 Locust street.

Miss Halliday, who is the daughter of Mrs. M. S. Halliday, had an engagement at the Y. W. C. A. at 10 o'clock. The trouble on the family automobile kept her from leaving home until 10 minutes to 10. When she stepped into the car with her sister, Katherine, and a girl friend, she told the chauffeur, James Galloway, to get to her destination in 10 minutes.

Galloway barely attempted to perform the task, but unfortunately ran afoul of a motorcycle policeman on Washington boulevard between Vandeventer avenue and Whittier street, while the Halliday car was bowling along at the rate of 30 miles an hour. When the policeman arrested him for speeding, it looked as if Miss Halliday would be late for her engagement, but when she explained the urgent necessity of being on time, the policeman politely allowed her to be driven to the Y. W. C. A. before he took Galloway and the car to police headquarters. Here Miss Katherine Halliday advanced the money to Galloway with which to give a bond on his own recognizance.

NEW SUGAR TRUST PREDICTED IF SUGAR GOES ON FREE LIST

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Henry T. Oxnard, vice-president of the American

Beet Sugar Co., told the Senate Lobby Committee today that free sugar would result in the formation of a new "Sugar Trust." Only the best-managed sugar factories would be able to survive free sugar, he said, and a combination would be the result.

"Then you are going to form a new trust?" asked Senator Reed.

"I have that in mind," said the witness.

"In violation of the antitrust law?"

"No, sir; there is no law to prevent it. I have been so advised by counsel."

Oxnard said that he assisted in organizing the old Sugar Trust in 1888, exchanging his company with a capital of $100,000 for $750,000 new stock. The new corporation later was taken over by the American Sugar Refining Co., the so-called trust.

Oxnard said he received $100,000 yearly as vice-president of the American Beet Sugar Co., but denied that he was paid that salary "for legislative work."

Senator Walsh sought to learn whether Oxnard was in Washington with "Sugar at a Glance" was changed by someone, in what the committee holds was a violation of the Senate order making it a public document. Oxnard said he was away at that time. He said he knew a great deal about "Sugar at a Glance," but disclaimed responsibility for it.

Senator Reed asked Oxnard again as to the destruction of the sugar association's books. Oxnard explained that C. C. Hamlin of Colorado Springs, chairman of the board of directors of the Beet Sugar Association, had been treasurer of the United States beet sugar industry until last July. He had been succeeded by John F. Harper of Cleveland. He did not know whether either one's books were destroyed.

Oxnard was not prepared to say that he and his companies had contributed $50,000 to the United States beet sugar industry and its predecessors. He said it might be $10,000, but promised to produce the figures later.

STRIKE AGAIN ON IN WEST VIRGINIA, ILL. FEELING GROWING

Bitterness Exhibited as the U. S. Senate Investigators Prepare to Resume Hearing. With the Operators Giving Their Side of 'Reign of Terror.'

CHARGED AGREEMENT IS NOT LIVED UP TO

Renewal of Industrial War Said to Be Based on Claim of Discrimination in Employing of Miners and Beating of 4 Men.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 16.—With industrial war again declared in West Virginia, the Senate Coal Strike Investigating Committee today confronted a situation critical and complicated. Word from the isolated sections of Paint Creek and Cabin Creek that the strike was again on, drifted into Charleston from a half dozen sources, and representatives of mine operators, miners and State officials sought in vain for word from the little camps along the creeks.

The union attorneys appearing before the committee said that they were certain the men had declined to go back to work today at meetings held yesterday, but they were unable to make any estimate of the number of men who struck. There were comparatively few union men in the field, they said, but they believed both union and nonunion men decided to quit.

For days the New River miners, numbering 15,000, have threatened trouble, and it was feared the new outbreak on Paint and Cabin Creeks would precipitate a struggle there.

The miners meeting at Ekdale and Kayford, according to reports reaching Charleston, voted to renew the strike on the ground that the operators had not lived up to their agreement to take the strikers back to work without discriminating. This claim and the story that mine guards had "beaten up" four men on Cabin Creek on Saturday caused the decision.

With feeling between miners and mine operators again keyed up to a high pitch, the Senate committee prepared to call upon the mine operators for their side of the controversy. Six mine guards, detectives and special agents of the United States department, who were in the room where the hearing was being held.

Contradiction and explanation of the stories told all last week by the men and women who lived through what former Gov. Casswell called a "reign of terror" in the strike district was the program of the operators, and they had witnesses on hand. The committee urged that the number of witnesses be held down to the lowest possible figure, but the attorneys for the operators insisted that their case called for a mass of testimony. Only Senators Swanson, Martine and Kenyon were on hand to begin the hearing. Senators Borah and Shields having returned to Washington last week.

Glances of bitter resentment and an occasional muttered word among the scores of men gathered about the committee hotel bore witness to the ill feeling that still prevails here. The story of the shooting up of a mine guard, relating to the shooting up of the strikers' camp at Holly Grove, have crystallized much of the ill feeling, and even among the attorneys before the committee an occasional glance of bitterness shows the undercurrent of resentment.

The presence in Charleston of John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, resulted in several conferences among union officials. He was in Charleston principally to make an appearance and give ball in the criminal cases brought against the mine officials in the Federal courts for alleged conspiracy under the Sherman law.

BOY DIGGING CAVE KILLED WHEN ROOF COLLAPSES

Henry Carden, 10 years old, was killed Sunday by the collapse of the roof of a cave which he and other boys had been digging in Bums' Hollow, west of St. Charles, Mo. Tons of earth fell upon him. His brother, Julius, who was in the cave with him, escaped without injury. Julius and the others made frantic efforts to save Henry, but so much earth was piled upon the boy that he was dead before the rescuers could get to him. Henry, a black-haired, red-eyed boy, was unconscious when some of the earth struck him, but soon revived.

The boys had dug some distance into the side of the hill, and when the cave-in occurred Henry Carden, who was farthest from the opening, was the only one who could not escape. He started to run when the earth began to crumble, but was unable to reach the open air. He lived with his mother, Mrs. Kate Carden, a widow, at Second and Franklin streets, St. Charles.

Dissenting Judge Urges Injunction Against Terminal

locutory decree now to be entered so clearly directs as does the opinion and mandate of the Supreme Court. The interlocutory decree used the exact language of the Supreme Court with respect to the abolition of the arbitrary. Judge Hook, in his dissenting opinion, held that every semblance of the bridge arbitrary between St. Louis and East St. Louis should be wiped out, and that the Circuit Judges should not stop merely with the language of the Supreme Court, but should go further and make the decree so specific that it would be impossible for any misunderstanding to arise as to what the court meant when it said the arbitrary should be abolished.

Favors an Injunction. Judge Hook also declared that the interlocutory decree should contain an injunction against the continuation of the practice of charging an arbitrary. "I don't think I am mistaken in saying that my brothers sustain the defendant in their contention," said Judge Hook, referring to the right of the railroad to charge an arbitrary. "Their view is not fully expressed, but it is foreshadowed in the interlocutory decree. That decree is, in substance, in the form of the one entered by the District Court, which we vacated."

"No Release From Arbitrary." "It contains no injunction or award of the release against the continued imposition of the special rates and charges sought by the Government in its proposed form of interlocutory decree. It merely to enter a final decree to put upon the record what I think the Supreme Court said it intended and a recital of what the defendants are still doing. It is not premature. It is in response to the motion of the Government, submitted to us after full argument."

Judge Hook protested against delaying the injunction he referred to until the final decree should be entered. He said that the District Judge had intended, originally, merely to enter a final decree in the same language as the Supreme Court's mandate with respect to the arbitrary, and intimated that he thought that was what the two Circuit Judges intended to do.

"Should Be Decided Now." "The question of an injunction is up for decision now," he continued. "The combination known as the Terminal Association is still acting as a terminal agency. The Supreme Court holds that while doing so, certain special arbitrary charges cannot lawfully be made. If what defendants admit what is still being done is wrong, it is wrong now; and the Government is entitled to an injunction at this time and to know definitely just what is enjoined."

Referring again to the Supreme Court's order with respect to the arbitrary, Judge Hook, after quoting the court's full order on this subject, said:

"The principal difference between myself and my brothers, as well as between counsel, is over the meaning of the last of these paragraphs (the paragraph referring to the abolition of the arbitrary)."

"I think that when read as it should be read in the light of the entire opinion and the record in the case, the meaning is quite clear. But whoever is right, I take it as highly desirable that the prohibition be expressed in the decree with such detail gathered from the opinion and the record, that no doubt can be reasonable of its scope and purport.

Fears Further Controversy. "This is especially important in a case of injunction, a violation of which may be followed by punishment. If it is not to be done then that the decree be accompanied by an opinion indicating definitely the attitude of this court, to the end that the parties may conduct themselves accordingly."

"To put the precise words of the fifth paragraph (the paragraph referring to the arbitrary) without more, as is proposed, does not end the case, but establishes a starting point for further controversy and litigation."

"In considering the fifth paragraph it should be borne in mind that the Supreme Court holds that the Terminal Railroad Association can lawfully operate only as a terminal agency of the various carrying railroads."

"As such, it may make the usual charges for terminal services, like switching and warehousing, but it cannot lawfully interpose itself as a transportation company between the Western roads at St. Louis and the Eastern roads in East St. Louis, and make charges for services of that character."

"It logically results from this that the two cities constitute one commercial and manufacturing center, connected and served by an aggregation of terminal facilities, in which all the railroads are or may be interested and which all may use."

"As regards transportation rates, the several localities of this industrial center should be upon a parity without discrimination, arbitrary or differential. Otherwise the association becomes at once an unlawful combination of carrying railroads."

Holds Name of Bridge Charge Is Not Important.

Judge Hook said further: "It is not important what this charge for transportation across the river be called. In the testimony it was referred to interchangeably as an arbitrary, a differential and a special charge. The Supreme Court refers to it as a special or so-called arbitrary charge."

"Mr. Perkins said, 'It makes no difference what you call it, arbitrary or differential or what, it is an amount paid.' It is equally unimportant whether it was imposed by the Terminal Association, as was once the case, or as it is now being added by the proprietary railroads to their freight rates. In either case it is not a terminal switching charge, but is a transportation charge, as to which the two cities are not on a parity."

"Combination Not Lawful." "The combination of terminal facilities at St. Louis cannot lawfully operate, or be operated, as carrying railroads. The record before the Supreme Court showed clearly that when the test was taken, the special charge was not being made as a separate, distinct item, but was added to and included in the freight rate within the 100-mile area."

"Worked Hardship on Trade." "Mr. Perkins testified that it was still there. I think that the Supreme Court was dealing with the situation so disclosed and with the substance, not the form."

"Whether imposed by the Terminal Association as an agency, or by the proprietary railroads as the principals, the arbitrary was equally objectionable as a hardship on the commerce of St. Louis."

The Supreme Court Order. "I repeat here the directions of the Supreme Court: 'The abolition of any special or so-called arbitrary charge for the use of the terminal facilities in respect of the traffic originating within the so-called 100-mile area, that is not equally and in like manner applied in respect of all other traffic of a like character, originating outside that area."

The Paragraph in Dispute. The paragraph containing the Supreme Court's decision on the arbitrary, over which the controversy has been waged between counsel for the Government and counsel for the Terminal and railroads, is as follows:

"By providing for the abolition of any special or so-called arbitrary charge for use of the terminal facilities in respect of the traffic originating in the so-called 100-mile area, that is not equally or in like manner applied in respect to all other traffic of like character originating outside of that area."

Crow, for the Government, contends that it was the intention of the Supreme Court in this paragraph to completely abolish the arbitrary, but the railroads contend that this language of the courts legalizes the arbitrary, just so it is charged in all territory alike.

Exists Only in 100-Mile Zone. The arbitrary exists now only in the 100-mile area, being principally upon coal. It was abolished outside of that zone several years ago.

The Government contends that under the interlocutory decree, the Terminal could legalize the arbitrary within the 100-mile zone by re-establishing it outside of that district.

Crow had directed his fight to obtain a decree that would completely wipe out the arbitrary, both inside and outside of the 100-mile district.

FINDS HUSBAND DEAD IN CHAIR IN THE YARD

Louis Bueche, 80 years old, shot himself in the mouth when sitting in a chair in the rear yard of his residence, 2674 Blaine avenue, some time Sunday night. His body was found by his wife, Christina, at 4:40 a. m. Monday.

Bueche was a beer wagon driver. The police say he quit his job recently because of ill health. He was despondent because of this condition, and the heat of Sunday added to his melancholy.

Three green children who resided with Bueche were at home Sunday night, but none heard the shot. Bueche retired at 11 p. m. Sunday. His wife did not hear him arise.

BARTHOLOTT TAKES CONGRESS TO TASK FOR PURITAN LAWS

St. Louis Representative Tells Pennsylvania Germans That Personal Liberty Is in Danger.

By Associated Press. JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 16.—Members of Congress were sharply arraigned here today by Representative Bartholdt of Missouri in a speech at the German day celebration for their alleged attitude toward prohibition and other summary legislation. He took for his text "Personal Liberty," and called on all "liberal" citizens to join in a fight to offset the "Puritan cause."

"Are you aware that the last Congress composed of a Democratic House and Republican Senate," he demanded, "passed a prohibition measure by more than a two-thirds majority; and that the laws which constitute 85 per cent of the membership, knew it was unconstitutional, and voted for it anyway? It is a fact."

"President Taft true to his oath to defend the legislation, had the courage to veto the bill, but the same two-thirds majority, although eight had taken exactly the same oath as the President, passed it over his veto."

Liberties Are in Danger. "When things have come to such a pass that responsible law makers will overthrow the Constitution for a popular fad, do you not agree with me that your liberties, for which the Constitution is our guarantee, are the great possible danger?"

"The struggle declared the struggle of the age in the United States was between the Puritan and his blue laws, on one hand, and the pleasure-loving Germanic people on the other. He denounced the collection of funds in churches and by religious organizations, which, he charged, were used to intimidate law makers in both the national and the State legislatures."

"The struggle between these two wholly different theories of life is on, my friends," he said, "and it is becoming fiercer every day. The attempt to further and further restrict our liberties in a Puritan sense, is carried on in the garb of a religious movement, and the ministers of all churches and the members of all congregations are constantly called upon to support and for money to maintain the law."

World Stop Movement. "I do not exaggerate, my friends, when I say that if this movement is not stopped, and stopped soon, the American people will find themselves wrapped up in a network of 'don'ts' which will completely hamper their freedom of action. And instead of being free men in all matters of personal conduct, they will be slaves fettered by the chains of un-American laws."

Bartholdt demanded what was to be done to combat the prohibition movement. He partially answered his query by asserting that Germans throughout the United States would be a unit in opposition to any encroachment on their personal liberty.

TRIES TO STOP NOISE; HIT

Asks Church Disturbers to Quit; Is Struck With Board.

Two men who disturbed services in the First German Baptist Church, 237 Rauschenbach avenue, at 8:45 p. m. struck Louis Gledingshagen, who begged them to desist, over the head with a board. Gledingshagen is 37 years old and lives at 2115 Rauschenbach avenue. He was attended by Dr. Charles E. Carriere of 2123 St. Louis avenue and went home.

The disturbers were two young men. They stood in a lot outside the church and sang catchy tunes in a loud tone. The tunes were supplemented by catcalls, the police were informed. When the disturbance became unbearable Gledingshagen went out and asked the pair to leave.

W. D. BOYCE WEDS FIRST WIFE AGAIN; SECOND DIVORCED

Millionaire, Husband of Former Virginia Lee Few Months, on Trip to Alaska.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, June 16.—W. D. Boyce, millionaire Chicago publisher and explorer, who remarried his divorced first wife here Saturday, has departed with his bride on their second honeymoon, which they will spend in Alaska.

The laceration between their legal separation in 1908 and their remarriage was averted for the publisher. In 1909 he married Miss Virginia Lee of St. Louis, daughter of former Lieutenant-Governor John A. Lee of Missouri. They separated three months after the wedding. Last April the second wife, who was many years younger than Boyce, got a divorce, custody of their baby daughter and $100,000 alimony.

Son Opposed Marriage.
This marriage was bitterly opposed by Boyce's son, who was about the age of Miss Lee. When the father broke the news of their coming nuptials, the son attacked him and knocked him down. The wedding took place in Chicago and the pair departed at once for Europe. On their return Boyce went to Chicago and Mrs. Boyce to Santa Barbara, Cal. In a little while the gossips were busy in St. Louis and Chicago with rumors of an irreparable quarrel between them. These were at first denied by relatives of both. At that time it was said that Boyce had planned to remarry his first wife in the event of a divorce.

Divorce in California.
The divorce action was brought in Santa Barbara. The allegations were that Boyce had deserted his bride after three months in London. Boyce did not offer any defense. The judge at first suspended the proceedings, but, after a conference with Mrs. Boyce's lawyers decided this was not so and granted the decree.

In the five years since she was divorced, the first Mrs. Boyce has enjoyed an annuity of $25,000, which was settled upon her by the publisher when they separated.

Boyce is 52 years old. Mrs. Virginia Lee Boyce is 23.

GIRL SUFFERED TERRIBLY

At Intervals—Says Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound Completely
Cured Her.

"I take pleasure in adding my testimonial to the great list and hope that it will be of interest to suffering women. For four years I suffered untold agonies at regular intervals. Such pains and cramps, severe chills and sickness at stomach, then, finally hemorrhages until I would be nearly blind. I had five doctors and none of them could do more than relieve me for a time.

"I saw your advertisement in a paper and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took seven boxes of it and I am completely cured of my trouble. When I began taking the Compound I only weighed ninety-six pounds and now I weigh one hundred and twenty-six pounds. If anyone wishes to address me in person I will cheerfully answer all letters, as I cannot speak too highly of the Pinkham remedies."

Miss Jessie Marsh, Adrian, Texas. Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

LITTLE GIRL WHO SOLD 116 TICKETS FOR PURE MILK SHOW

Little Virginia Brauer of 523, North Market street holds the record as the best ticket-seller for the big Pure Milk Fund benefit performance given by the pupils of the Shepherd School of Dancing at the Mikado Theater on Friday evening, May 30. She sold 116 tickets.

There was a lively ticket-selling competition between the 50 children who took part in the performance, and little Miss Brauer worked untiringly to win the distinction that now has come to her. The performance realized net proceeds of $139.50 with which to help save the tenement babies.

Mothers can safely leave the little ones in the Fifth Floor Play-ground while attending to their shopping. The little folk will enjoy the fun.

In the event that the Pure Milk Commission, the King's Daughters and the Trained Nurse Association receive the full financial aid necessary to a complete performance of their task of saving the lives of the tenement babies, there will be great rejoicing in St. Louis this summer.

The tenement mothers will lead in this rejoicing. Each mother will press close to her heart her little baby. Her rejoicing will be because the baby is alive and well. Death is claiming these babies now. Pure milk alone can save them.

They will be saved if the money necessary to their saving is provided.

A fund of $10,000 is required to defray the cost of the entire summer's life-saving campaign. It is estimated that, if this amount is raised, the lives of 500 tenement babies, otherwise certain to be sacrificed, surely will be saved.

Can you imagine any sight more glad-rejoicing to see than the rejoicing of the tenement mothers over their little babies, saved from imminent peril of death? What a splendid picture to contemplate!

But, as matters now stand, there is another side to the picture.

The money necessary to save the lives of the tenement babies has not been raised.

If it is not soon in hand the tenement babies must die. Unless they can be fed with pure milk the strength-sapping heat of summer will surely kill them. This is as certain as that the sun rises and sets.

Will you help to bring about the rejoicing of the mothers of these babies, saved, or will you refuse your help and permit them to mourn the death of their little ones?

If you are willing to help, send your contribution to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. Send it quickly. The money is needed now.

Rothschilds Concern Brings in Immense Cargo to West Trade From Standard Oil.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—A new battle between the Rothschilds and the Standard Oil Co. was started here when the Dutch tank steamer Kessler arrived Saturday from Sumatra with 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

It is the best grade of paraffine oil produced in the Orient and the first consignment of many which will be used to wrest from the Standard Oil Co. its American supremacy.

The cargo was consigned to the American Gasoline Co., controlled by the Rothschilds. The product will be distributed on the Pacific Coast at 16½ cents a gallon, beginning July 1.

Other big tank steamers are already on the way here to increase the supply before the cargo of the Kessler has been used.

KINSEY TO ADVISE HOUSE TO RETAIN REBER APPROACH

President of B. P. I. Says He Believes That Route Best for Free Bridge.

FINDS GERHART PLAN HIGH

Also Will Recommend That Alton & Mississippi Line Be Used as a Spur.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Improvements told a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday that he would recommend to the House of Delegates, in his report on free bridge matters Tuesday night, that the Reber approach be not abandoned.

While he will tell the House that the Alton & Mississippi approach would be feasible from an engineering standpoint, Kinsey holds that at least 2300 feet of the Reber approach should be retained, and that the Alton & Mississippi approach, if adopted, should be made a spur of the Reber approach.

City Counselor Eard recently gave an opinion that the Reber approach could not be abandoned, but that it could be amended by changing a part of the route.

To Answer House Questions. Kinsey's report to the House will not deal with the transportation side of the question, or with the matter of expense, and it will not be a recommendation that the Alton & Mississippi approach be adopted, but merely an expert answer to questions asked by the House regarding it.

The House, May 20, passed a resolution asking the President of the board to confer with the officials of the Alton & Mississippi Belt Railway & Transportation Co., to ascertain whether its offer to give the city a right of way over the belt line, was still open.

The House also asked the President of the board to report on the advantages and disadvantages of the route, and later a joint resolution of House and Council asked him to report on the feasibility of each of the proposed East Side approaches.

Less Costly Than Gerhart Route. Kinsey said that, in regard to the matter of expense, he was ready to say only that the Alton & Mississippi route would be less costly to the city than the so-called Gerhart, or northeast approach. He was not prepared to make a close comparison of the cost with that of the Reber approach, as extended by the Associated Retailers.

The Alton & Mississippi route consists of the right of way for a belt line 21 miles in length, extending to Madison County, Ill., on the north. It runs southeast from the end of the bridge, then turns toward the north.

"I SHOULD WORRY," HE SAYS TO $15,000 SUIT

Mascoutah Farmer Says He Has Never Been in Chicago Where Man Was Hurt by Auto.

"I should worry," was the only remark Frank Wolfersberger, a farmer of Mascoutah, Ill., made Monday when served with notification that John Pollack of Chicago had brought a $15,000 personal injuries suit against him.

The farmer explained his don't-care attitude by declaring he could prove that he had not been anywhere near the place where Pollack was hurt.

Pollack was run over by an automobile on a Chicago street. The driver of the machine never stopped to assist him. He got the license number of the car, however, and had it looked up. The records showed that the number was issued to Wolfersberger.

Wolfersberger declares he has never been out of St. Clair County with his machine and that he never was in Chicago in his life. He believes the number on the car which hit Pollack was a forgery.

Not a Cloud in Sight for the Present Week

WASHINGTON, June 16. ARM weather with clear skies over the greater part of the country is predicted for the present week by the Weather Bureau.

"There will be scattered thunderstorms the first part of the week along the northern border," the weekly bulletin says, "and by the middle of the week showers will set in along the East Gulf and South Atlantic coasts."

"No storm is charted to cross the country during the ensuing week, although a disturbance of minor intensity will form Tuesday or Wednesday over the Western plateau region and advance thence in a northeasterly direction, attended by local thunderstorms, and reach the region of the Great Lakes Thursday or Friday."

VOLCANO CRATER IN HAWAII MADE INTO A FORTRESS

U. S. Troops Move into It. Mount Guns on Rim, Plant Gardens on Its Slopes.

BOSTON, June 15.—The following picturesque story of a remarkable natural fortress in Hawaii is printed in a Boston newspaper today:

lands have taken possession of the crater of a large extinct volcano situated on the coast and are working night and day to convert it into a fortress capable of withstanding a long siege.

Ammunition, food supplies and other necessities are being stored in it, guns are being mounted, a water supply has been arranged for and gardens have been planted on the slopes of the crater to provide food.

This information reached Boston from an authentic source in Honolulu. The communication further said that Americans living in the Hawaiian Islands, including the troops, are very anxious over the Japanese situation.

It was stated that in Honolulu war with Japan is regarded as certain; and that, recognizing that, under ordinary circumstances, the 60,000 Japanese living in the islands, most of whom are former soldiers, would have little difficulty in seizing the Philippines, the authorities are straining every nerve to prepare for resistance.

The army and marine corps officers believe that practically all of the Japanese in Hawaii were sent there for no other purpose than to be on hand to seize the island in case of war; that these men are thoroughly prepared, including equipment, to take the field on short notice.

The communication says that the American troops have moved into the crater, bag and baggage, that living quarters are being prepared within, and that guns are being mounted all around the rim so that a fortress capable of withstanding an attack from either land or sea, will confront any forces that may attack the place.

OUTWARD QUIET IN HAWAII, BUT FEELING IS TENSE

191,000 Population in the Islands, Upward of 94,000 Are Japanese.

JINGOES INFLAME THEM

Honolulu Whites Prepared for Anything During Controversy Over Land Bill.

Special Correspondence of the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

HONOLULU, May 21.—Now that California has put on the lid and screwed down the cap so far as anti-alien land ownership is concerned and it is now up to the Federal Government to carry the chip on its shoulder or make a new treaty, there is probably no place in the world that is more in the world's eye at the present moment than these islands. With more than 94,000 Japanese in a population of 191,000, Hawaii is the place of all others outside of Japan where the Japanese pulse-beat can be felt with a certainty. All in all, the islands are in a peculiar position, and the situation will get more peculiar until there is a final settlement of "injured feelings" that seem to exist on both sides of the question.

If anything should happen, Hawaii has been picked out as the first place where the Japanese would make a strike. Everything on the surface here appears as serene as a summer's day, but it's only on the surface. From what can be learned, preparations are being made to meet anything that comes along or shyly in the air to turn up within the confines of Hawaii.

It is the belief here that it is a good thing to look the situation right in the face. There is little said about war with Japan, and there is nothing said that would in any wise tend to stir up the Japanese unnecessarily; for there is no denying that there would be some "hot times in the old town" if anything should be started. Firearms are being cleaned up, and the gun stores report increased sales of automatics during the last few weeks. However, no one is losing any sleep over it.

Ever since the California Legislature sprung the anti-alien land bill quite a number of prominent Japanese from the mother country have passed through Honolulu on their way to the east with the intention of int-voicing for Japan and making an attempt at quashing the obnoxious land bill. All have held meetings here for the benefit of the Japanese, and some of them have been of a fiery nature. A daily paper of this city said that the Japanese here, with great shouting and with their eyeballs spitting fire—words to that effect.

Each of these foreign speakers has seen fit to seemingly stir up the "feeling" by such utterances as: "Japanese have always been patient, but there comes a time when the Japanese race must show their manhood and be firm," and "our treaty is being violated and Japan must not stand for that."

While they preached peace in the strongest terms and bowed and scraped, characteristic of all Japanese, they seemed to let no opportunity escape to insert some phrase or sentence that would have the effect of inflaming the crowd.

Meetings of the Japanese have been held here, lately, at times they have become extremely demonstrative, but there are a number of cool heads who have caused them to listen to reason. Since the signing of the land bill there is a lessening up of the strain.

With the number of forts, barracks, "Big Bettles," mortars, disappearing searchlights and the four thousand and more troops here, Hawaii feels comparatively safe for the time being.

But this is all on the island of Oahu, the island on which Honolulu is situated. There are three other large islands. There are many plantations are located and thousands of Japanese are employed, especially on the "big island," Hawaii, where are located the majority of the Japanese.

In the event of war, it is thought that the Japanese on the island (Oahu) could be taken care of easily, and by tying up the small interisland steamers there would be no way for the masses of Japanese on the other islands to reach the capital city. At the same time it is thought that it would be necessary to dispatch many troops to the other islands to protect the whites residing there.

The exact feeling regarding the Japanese here is being kept strictly under one's hat as far as public expression is made, with an exception here and there of one who gives vent to his private opinion publicly expressed regarding the subjects of the Mikado, and it is noticed that at such times he is heartily cheered.

Right in the midst of the "heated cheer" the pastor of one of the largest churches in this city preached what he termed a "peace sermon," the whole of which was devoted to reasons why Hawaii should at once give the Japanese the franchise and all other rights that go with citizenship. From the expressions heard on the street it would seem that the divine had selected a most inopportune time to apply any such ideas on American people. He has been answered rather sharply through the columns of the daily press.

To show how well Hawaii has things in hand here and to what extent the Federal Government is guarding things it has been remarked that at Fort Ruger, that operates Battery Harlow that guards the city of Honolulu, there is a Japanese servant in nearly every house.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 14.—A friendly wrestling match in a public park here may prove fatal to Jesse J. Moore, 20 years old, according to surgeons who attended him.

Beer Exposed to Light for 5 Minutes Becomes Undrinkable

This is not our statement, but the deliberate opinion of one of the most renowned scientists in the world. Read the entire statement:

"We have tested beers repeatedly, placing the bottles in the direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed. The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are, therefore, recommendable."—Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology.

It is not enough that beer be brewed pure, it must be kept pure.

Many Americans prefer beer in a light bottle. Most brewers follow the course of least resistance.

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. Schlitz is sold in Brown Bottles to protect its purity from the brewery to your glass.

See that crown or cork is branded "Schlitz."

SCALDED CHILD IN COLLINSVILLE DIES

Infant Playing in Mother's Kitchen Drenched With Hot Water From Overturned Tub.

Mary Delito, 2 years old, died at her parents' home in Collinsville Monday from injuries caused by a tub of hot water, which she pulled over upon herself in her mother's kitchen Saturday afternoon.

After the accident her mother, Mrs. Joseph Delito, plunged the child into a tub of cold water. This caused a convulsion which weakened the child, but physicians say death would probably have resulted in any case.

Ironmaster Presents Address of Congratulation on 25 Years of Peace.

'EMPEROR AN INSPIRATION'
St. Louisan Signally Honored in Being Among First to Have an Audience.

By Associated Press.
BERLIN, June 16.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession of Emperor William to the imperial throne was celebrated today throughout the German Empire as a general holiday. The commemoration, which had been deferred from its actual date out of respect to the memory of the Emperor's father, Frederick, coincides with the forty-second anniversary of the triumphal return of his grandfather at the head of his victorious army after the Franco-Prussian war and naturally was marked by considerable military display.

Emphasis, however, was laid also on the peaceful aspects of the Emperor's quarter century reign—industrial and civic developments and the material prosperity of the country.

The presentation of an address from the American Peace Society by Andrew Carnegie, R. S. Brookings of St. Louis and J. G. Schmidlapp of Cincinnati gave the Emperor an opportunity of bringing out this aspect of the occasion. He responded to Andrew Carnegie's congratulations on the completion of his 25 years' peaceful reign with an emphatic "I hope we shall have 25 years more of peace."

Brookings, who is president of the corporation of Washington University, and a member of the Carnegie Peace Foundation, was signally honored in being selected as one of the small number of the ruler's American guests.

The address presented by the Americans was, in part, as follows:

25 Years of Unbroken Peace.
"To His Imperial Majesty, the German Emperor—On behalf of organizations and societies which represent the effort of American citizens of every section, creed and race to advance the cause of civilization, we venture to express to Your Imperial Majesty our congratulations upon a reign notable in countless ways, in none more so than in the maintenance of 25 years of unbroken peace between Germany and the other nations of the world."

"The memorable words of Your Majesty shortly after ascending the throne, 'The peace of my country is sacred to me,' came both from the head and from the heart. Sacred, indeed, the peace, the order and the prosperity of the German people have been."

"More than once during the last 25 years it has been the high privilege of Your Majesty not only to exercise peaceful forbearance, but to inspire it in others."

"We beg to tender our thanks to your Imperial Majesty for what you have done to prevent war and to advance the coming of the day when there shall be peace upon earth and good will to men."

"In addition to the preservation of peace, we know well that every department of the Government has received and is receiving your sympathetic cooperation. The remarkable developments in the commerce and the industries of Germany and the improvement of agriculture, are due much to Your Majesty's judicious and unwearied efforts."

Advances in Every Field.
"Those of us engaged in the development of the industries, the commerce, the education, the science and arts of your country and in promoting as far as lies in our power the brotherhood of man, unite in expressing to Your Majesty our sense of obligation for the example your reign of 25 years has set."

We congratulate Your Majesty upon the notable advance made by Germany in every field of human effort during your peaceful, prosperous and civilizing reign.

"Long may it continue unbroken!"

LEAHY FIRM GETS $5163 FEE IN CASSIDY CASE

Judge Holtcamp Allows Greater Part of Claim Which the Widow Resisted.

An award of $5163 was made by Probate Judge Holtcamp Monday to the law firm of Leahy, Saunders & Barth for work performed for the estate of Abner C. Cassidy, a stock dealer. The firm claimed $6693 for its services, and the widow, Mrs. Antoinette Cassidy of New York, resisted the claim, declaring it excessive, but the Court, after a hearing, allowed the greater part of it. E. C. Crowley of New York appeared as Mrs. Cassidy's lawyer.

A suit filed by John S. Leahy, one of the lawyers, and involving the continuance of a trust created for part of the Cassidy estate, was on trial Monday in Judge Cave's court. As Mrs. Cassidy is seeking to terminate the trust, and Leahy, as trustee, is opposing the plan.

Her Neighbor's Advice

"I was hurt in an accident," says Mrs. A. C. Lease, of Tribune, Kansas, "and suffered from an ailment peculiar to women. I had sore spots all over, and they said I had nervous prostration. We spent over $100 in doctoring, but I was not helped. I could not sleep or eat—could not raise my head from the pillow. One of our neighbors recommended CARDUI, and my husband went 8 miles through a blizzard to get it. CARDUI saved my life, for I was soon able to get up, and could sleep all right. Now I am getting along fine, and do not suffer any more. I am a friend to CARDUI and recommend it to all."

GRAND JURY IS TO TAKE UP DAYLIGHT STREET CAR CRASH

Creve Coeur Passengers, More Than 20 of Whom Were Hurt, Complained to Motor-Man of Speed of 30 Miles an Hour—Car Stalled on Track Struck in Daylight—By in Remarkable Rescue.

The injuring of more than 20 passengers in a rear-end collision between two "moonlight cars" on the United Railways Creve Coeur Lake line in daylight, and on a straightaway stretch of track, at 7:40 p. m. Sunday will be made the subject of an investigation by the St. Louis County grand jury, with a view to fixing the responsibility and returning indictments.

This was the third serious accident on this line in five years. In each of the others one man was killed and many passengers hurt.

The investigation, according to Prosecuting Attorney Lashly, will not be confined to an effort to determine what employe or employes of the company were directly responsible for this particular accident. Officers and officials of the United Railways Co. will be called upon to explain why cars are permitted to run close together and at high speed with no block signal system or other adequate safeguard against accidents.

Passengers on the crowded car which crashed Sunday evening protested against the speed and apparent recklessness with which Motorman John F. Harmon ran the car. Several of them Monday said that they saw the danger of a collision and that they saw the car ahead and warned Harmon to slow down.

Speed 30 Miles an Hour.

The motorman, they said, maintained the speed until it was too late for the airbrakes to stop the car in time to prevent a wreck. These passengers say that the car was running at least 30 miles an hour and was within a short distance of the crowded car when Harmon applied the air to the brakes.

At the De Balliere sheds of the United Railways Co. it was said that the schedule running time between De Balliere avenue and Creve Coeur Lake, a distance of 18 miles, was 45 minutes. To cover this distance in the allotted time, without any stops, a motorman would have to run his car 24 miles an hour.

Many stops are necessary on this line on a busy Sunday. Picknickers get on and off the cars at many stations. In order to make up for these stops and still get to Creve Coeur Lake in the allotted 45 minutes, the motorman must maintain a speed of considerably more than 24 miles an hour.

Passengers Flee in Disaster.

Mrs. Christina Thielman of 1008 North Compton avenue, one of the injured passengers, said that Harmon ran his car at terrific speed between Creve Coeur Lake and the place where the wreck occurred. She said she had several passengers say: "This motorman will kill us all before we get to town." Mrs. Thielman's daughter, Mrs. Walter Watson, who also was on the car, said she noticed that a sign at a trestle instructed all motormen to slow down to a speed of six miles an hour, but Harmon ignored the sign and took the trestle at high speed.

Eljah Bigham of 2211 South Thirteenth street, who was on Harmon's car with his wife and baby, said that many of the passengers were frightened at the speed with which the car was being run and called out warnings to the motorman. Bigham said the car was rocking to such an extent that many passengers feared their small children would be hurled from it.

Capt. McCulloch, president and general manager of the United Railways Co., told a Post-Dispatch reporter that cars on the Creve Coeur line were running less than five minutes apart Sunday afternoon.

Motorman's Excuses Denied.

Motorman Harmon at first said that his airbrake failed to work. This was denied by passengers. Later Harmon said that he failed to see the other car because some bright light blinded him. Passengers know of no such light. The sun had just set and no headlights are used on any of the cars. The passengers can find only one explanation for the wreck. They say it was due solely to what they regard as the criminal carelessness in the running of Harmon's car.

The accident occurred at Marion Sims avenue, five miles west of St. Louis and near the Midland Valley Golf Club grounds. Two cars had been stopped because of a broken guy wire. They were loaded with passengers returning to St. Louis from the lake, when a third eastbound car, also crowded, crashed into the rear of the motionless cars.

Those Most Seriously Hurt.

Those most seriously injured were: Mrs. Dora Bigham, 24, 2211 South Thirteenth street, right hip, thigh and leg fractured and internally hurt.

Mrs. H. J. Davis, 1518 Lafayette avenue, concussion of the brain, ribs fractured, head, arms and legs cut.

Mrs. Rena Carothers, 55, 1331 South Ninth street, right hip and thigh and left arm broken, hands and feet crushed.

H. J. Davis, 1518 Lafayette avenue, spine injured and leg wrenched.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were so badly hurt they could not be brought to St. Louis. They were taken to the home of Dr. E. J. Hogan, near the wreck.

All of the other injured were placed on a trolley car and brought to the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium, at Taylor avenue and Suburban tracks, where they were treated by United Railways surgeons.

county, according to regular passengers.

J. L. Miers, the United Railways division superintendent, who has supervision over the Creve Coeur Lake line, operates a saloon at the lake, and spends much of his time there on Sundays. Preparations to install a bathing beach in connection with this resort have kept him busier than usual with his private affairs recently.

Has 2 Restaurants, 2 Bars.

As proprietor of two restaurants and bars at Creve Coeur, Miers was indicted on two charges of selling liquor by a county grand jury in 1912. In October he pleaded guilty to one charge of selling on Sunday and was fined $50 and costs. The other case was dropped.

His indictment along with the indictments of other saloon men in the Creve Coeur district were obtained as the result of a campaign by Missouri Pacific Railway detectives. The railroad complained of disorderly Sunday night crowds on trains from the resort.

Miers Monday told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he was watching the traffic on the line Sunday, that he was on the third car behind Harmon's when the collision occurred. He said he had not yet fixed responsibility for the wreck. Miers said the accident, to use his own expression, occurred in "broad daylight" and that the hour was so early that no headlights had been lighted on any of the cars.

Harmon Says He Was Blinded.

Harmon, on week days, is employed on the Delmar avenue line. He went to work on the Creve Coeur division at 12:30 p. m. Sunday. At the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium Harmon told a Post-Dispatch reporter that a light blinded him, and prevented him from seeing the other car.

Edward Watson of 1787 Bell avenue, a passenger on the car which was hit, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that no lights were lighted on either car and that no westbound car carrying a light passed at the time of the wreck.

Harmon also revised his statement about the air failing to work. He said that his brake was in good order, but when he saw the other car, it was too late for it to be effective.

In addition to those already named, the more seriously injured of the other passengers are: Emily Baumeister, 1208 Gay avenue, East St. Louis; Mrs. Mary Byron, 50, Veronica avenue, East St. Louis; Clarence Flint, 131, Hebert street; William Thielman, 1008 North Compton, and Eljah Bigham, 2211 South Thirteenth street.

About 15 other passengers were cut and bruised.

McCulloch Discusses Accident.

"It is necessary to run the cars very close together on that line on Sundays to accommodate the traffic," said Capt. McCulloch. "The public demands quick and adequate transportation to and from the lake. It would be impractical to operate a block system on that line because the cars run so close together that there would always be two or more in the same block."

As to Motorman Harmon's statement that he hit his brake failed to work, Capt. McCulloch said: "That is the motorman's usual excuse for an accident."

Cars on the Creve Coeur Lake line are run at high speed, especially on Sunday. Eighteen extra cars are added to the usual equipment of six cars for the Sunday traffic and the cars run about two and one-half minutes apart. The extra cars are manned by motormen and conductors drawn from other divisions. These men as a rule have only a slight acquaintance with the Creve Coeur line.

Some of these men who all through the week have been operating cars in the city, where ordinance regulations and frequent stops prevent speeding, cannot resist the temptation of a Sunday "joy ride" when placed on the high-power cars and the long stretches of unobstructed right of way in the

WOMAN STABBED IN SHIELDING HER ESCORT IN FIGHT

Cut Three Times by James Sheehan Who Was Slashing at Erwin Stocklin.

Pauline Ray of 2018 Olive street was stabbed twice in the right arm and once in the left arm early Monday, when trying to protect Private Watchman Erwin Stocklin of the Municipal Courts building from James Sheehan of 2214 Cass avenue, who was slashing at Stocklin with a knife, in front of 814 Washington avenue.

Mrs. Ray was returning with Stocklin and Miss Anna Scott of 4022 Morrison avenue from an East St. Louis fishing resort. They returned from East St. Louis at 12:30 a. m. and were walking west on Washington avenue, when Sheehan is alleged to have made a remark which Stocklin resented.

According to the police report, Sheehan attacked Stocklin with a knife, and Miss Ray ran between them. After being stabbed, she fell to the sidewalk, while Stocklin beat Sheehan off with a rubber billy.

A police sergeant and patrolman captured Sheehan after a race of two blocks. Five shots were fired at him before he stopped.

The Ray woman was treated at the city hospital, and Stocklin, who was slightly hurt, was treated at the city dispensary. Sheehan told the police that he was only a spectator and took no part in the fight.

G. O. P. PROGRESSIVES TO INSIST ON CONVENTION

Cummins, Hadley and Others Oppose Institution of Reforms by Committee.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Members of the "Constitution Committee" of Progressive Republicans, who recently made demands upon the Republican National Committee for a national convention this year, have decided, as the result of meetings here Saturday and yesterday, to oppose any action by the National Committee to effect proposed reforms without a party convention.

Senator Cummins, former Gov. Hadley of Missouri, Senators Jones and Crawford and Representatives Anderson of Minnesota, Cranton of Michigan and Rogers of Massachusetts participated in the conferences, which will be renewed later this week.

Questions of reducing Southern representation in national conventions, recognizing delegates chosen in primaries, the unit rule and several others are to be considered, and the National Committee is to determine as a final authority whether a national convention shall be called to effect those reforms.

"We have heard that there is a growing belief that the National Committee may try to settle these questions," said Senator Cummins today. "I think the committee might have power, but the holding of a national convention would have a more salutary effect on the country."

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR AVIATOR ANDREW DREW

Archbishop Glennon and Jesuit Professors of St. Louis University Attend.

The funeral of Andrew Drew, the St. Louis aviator who was killed at Lima, O., last Thursday, was held Monday at 9 a. m. The body was taken from the Drew residence at 276 Lindell boulevard to St. Francis Xavier's Church at Grand avenue and Lindell boulevard, where a requiem mass was said by Rev. Father Henry C. Bronsgeest.

Archbishop Glennon and a number of Jesuit professors who had taught Drew when he attended St. Louis University, from which institution he was graduated, attended the services. Interment was in Calvary cemetery.

A number of aviators from out of the city, who had been associated with Drew in aeronautics in various parts of the country, attended his funeral. A representative of the Aero Club of Illinois and a delegation of business men from Lima, O., were present.

The pallbearers were Albert Bond Lambert, Joseph Pulitzer Jr., A. J. Benson Lindsay, Bryan Taylor, Robert Noller and Valle Reburn.

THIS IS MOVING DAY FOR FAME HALL IMMORTALS

John C. Calhoun and Lewis Cass Crowd Up a Little to Let in Zach Chandler.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—This is "moving day" for John C. Calhoun, Peter Muhlenberg, Lewis Cass of Michigan and other celebrated statues of great men in Statuary Hall at the capitol. The movement was made necessary by the arrival of another addition to the group of America's immortals. This was the statue of Zachariah Chandler of Michigan.

"It's sure tough on us," complained a capitol guide as he watched the peering workmen pull and haul the statues into different positions.

"We'll have to learn the layout of all these old guys all over again," the work did not proceed without friction. A band of Kansas almost raised the roof of the capitol with their protests when they discovered that John J. Ingalls had been relegated somewhat to the rear. They finally were pacified by Supt. Elliott Woods.

SALEM KIDNAPING CASE OUTLINED TO JURY BY LAWYERS

Preliminary Addresses Made in Trial of Frank Sullens and Ernest Harrison.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SALEM, Ill., June 16.—The trial of Frank Sullens and Ernest Harrison, charged with kidnaping Miss Dorothy Holt, 15 years old, daughter of Charles H. Holt, State's Attorney, began here today before Judge Rose.

The jury was completed Friday, and the attorneys began their preliminary addresses.

Traced to Lynch Sullens.

A determined stand by Sheriff Purcell prevented 200 persons from lynching Sullens on March 14.

Three companies of militia guarded the jail that night.

During the excitement reformers raided 12 blind tigers, destroyed the liquor and burned the fixtures.

Dorothy Holt had been visiting friends the evening of March 13, and at 9:30 o'clock she was accompanied to her gate by Mrs. Charles E. Hull, wife of Mayor Hull, and her daughter, Louise.

Leaving her friends at the gate Dorothy started to the door, when she heard someone call her. She turned around and was seized by a man, who choked her, forcing her to go with him. She was first taken to a coal mine about a half mile from town. From the mine the man made her accompany him to one of the old buildings of the slaughter house, where he detained her all night.

It was daylight before the girl gained sufficient strength to try to drag herself home. Some of the neighbors saw her and went to her aid.

When she told her story Deputy Sheriffs went in search of Sullens, whom they found a half mile west of town.

VETO OF SUNDRY CIVIL BILL URGED ON WILSON

National Council for Industrial Defense Presents Petition to the President.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—A petition has been filed with President Wilson by Chairman J. J. Kirby Jr. of the National Council for Industrial Defense, urging him to veto the sundry civil bill because of the clause forbidding the use of public funds for the enforcement against laborers' and farmers' unions of the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust act.

The petitioners represent that they are acting in behalf of 270 national, state and local organizations, having a membership of approximately 200,000 business men, merchants, manufacturers and distributors engaged in every form of interstate commerce. WOMAN IS TAKEN FROM HUSBAND, ATTACKED IN PARK

Tells Mounted Police She Was Prisoner of Five Men in Ravine Half Hour.

Mrs. Harry Perry of 3609 Bell avenue went to the Mounted District Police Station Monday and reported that she was forcibly taken away from her husband in Forest Park at 1:30 a. m. by five men, representing themselves as detectives, and taken to a ravine and attacked. She was accompanied by her husband when she made the report.

She told the police she and her husband went to the park at 12 p. m. Sunday, and sat down on a bench about 50 feet from the Chouteau avenue station. They fell asleep on the bench.

"I was awakened at 1:30 by some one grabbing me roughly by the arm," she told the police. "I saw five men gathered around us, two of them holding my husband. They said they were detectives and wanted to know what we were doing there. I started to explain, but they ordered my husband to leave, saying they were going to take me to the police station."

"He protested, but they forced him to go away, and started across the park with me, saying they were going to take me to the Mounted District Police Station. They stopped in a ravine and knocked me down. They held me a prisoner for half an hour, and released me. I went back to the Chouteau Avenue station, and there found my husband. He had been wandering around trying to find some one to help him obtain my release from what he believed to be detectives."

Mrs. Perry said she heard one of the men called Candy, and another Murphy. She gave a description of three of the men, but was unable to describe the other two.

ST. LOUIS GOLFERS HOPE TO CAPTURE TRANSMISSISSIPPI

Field of 231 Players in Qualifying Round Which Began This Morning.

GOLF TOURNEY FACTS

Event—Transmississippi Golf Association thirteenth annual tournament.
Course—Glen Echo Country Club, Normandy, Mo.
Monday's program—Qualifying round.
Number of individual entries—330.
Title holder—Harry G. Legg, Minneapolis Club, Minneapolis, Minn.
Memberships—Fifty-one clubs, located west of the Mississippi River and east of the Rocky Mountains. (Eight St. Louis clubs represented).

By Clarence F. Lloyd

Play started at 8 o'clock Monday morning in the thirteenth annual Transmississippi golf tournament on the Glen Echo links. The event has attracted 41 golfers, a surprisingly large number, inasmuch as both local and out-of-town players were tardy in entering the event. A few days ago it seemed that the entry would be a small one, but the experts entered with a rush at the last minute. The 53 players making the lowest scores in the qualifying round Monday morning will compete for the championship. The next 22 lowest score makers will compete for the President's Cup, while the following 22 will be eligible for the Directors' Cup. Players eliminated in the first round of play in the championship flight will be eligible to play for the consolation cup, and players losing in the first round of the President Cup competition will play for the Secretary's Cup.

Champion Will Not Compete.
While the out-of-town entry is a large one, Harry G. Legg of Minneapolis, the four-time winner of the tournament, is missing. Legg was unable to come to St. Louis because he is a member of an all-star Western golf team, which is making a tour of the Pacific Coast. His failure to come here in an effort to win the title for the fifth consecutive time has caused some surprise among the golfers.

Legg's absence, however, will not mean a lack of good competition. The names of some of the best golfers in the Middle West are included in the list. Others of St. Louis' first flight of golfers who have entered are Carl Fiebo, Chris Kearney, Jesse Carleton and Tom Carter Jr.
The following scores were made in the qualifying round Monday morning:

PLAYER	CLUB	SCORE
R. H. Rider	Hyperion	35-41-76

THE COMMERCIAL INSTINCT. The shades of night were falling fast.

As o'er the links there slowly passed
A corpulent and weary gent,
Upon a game of golf intent.
Hoot mon!

He placed the ball upon the tee,
Resolved to make the hole in three;
With visions of a bogey score
He whaled away and hollered: "Fore!"
Hoot mon!

His partner on the golfing links
Was one of those commercial glunks,
Who ran a large department store,
His mind intent on bargain lore.
Hoot mon!

He whipped the pellet fair and clean
And drove it to the putting green;
And as he wiped his streaming pate
He loudly yelled: "Three ninety eight!"

Baseball Crowds Dwindle; Games to Start Later

The starting time for week-day ball games at Robison Field has been set at 2:15 instead of 2 o'clock, President Britton announced Monday. Britton believes the new arrangement will please a majority of his patrons, who find it inconvenient to reach the ball park at 2 o'clock.

Attendance at Robison Field has not been up to expectations this season. The four-game series with the Phillies, who are leading the League, attracted about 30,000 fans. This included a Saturday and Sunday turn-out. One series between the Phillies and Cardinals in 1911 drew out approximately 76,000 fans. That was when the Cards returned from a successful road trip and opened to 17,000 on a Thursday. The subsequent Friday, Saturday and Sunday games drew equally as well.

In a recent series with Boston scored by 10,000 fans paid to see four games.

Griner's Pitching Holds Quakers; His Batting Scores Winning Runs

If Miller Huggins had his way on this, the sixteenth day of June, he would build a monument to Dan Griner of Tennessee. Furthermore, if Huggins were general manager of the U. S. A. he would retire Woodrow Wilson on full pay, and put Dan Griner in the presidential chair. No honor is too great for the big blond, Hug contends.

The reason is that Griner emulated the antics of a major league pitcher, and beat the flying Phillies Sunday after his teammates had made separate efforts to contribute another contest to the good of the Quaker cause. The score was Griner 4, Phillies 1.

Griner pitched a plumb good game. He set the League leaders down with five hits, four of them infield scratches. He had the enemy hypnotized after the first round, when a series of short jabs gave them a handicap of three runs.

On top of that, Big Dan figured largely in the victory as a batter. His triple drove home two runs in the seventh, while his clever bunt started a rally in the ninth which culminated in a run, setting victory. Huggins.

Team Which Beats the Phillies Likely to Win the Pennant Writes John McGraw

Whirlwind Pitching Staff Keeping Club at the Top

Giants Believe Pirates Are in and Outers, and Sees Cardinals Below Boston at Finish.

By JOHN J. MCGRAW, Manager of the Giants.

I AM convinced that the Philadelphia club is the one the Giants will have to beat to win the pennant. The Phillies are sticking out in front there with great persistency and refusing to budge. They have played pretty well around the circuit and have stood up well against all the clubs, much better than I expected they would. It has long been my opinion that the Phillies are playing beyond their natural speed, but perhaps this is the first season they have hit their normal gait under the efficient management of Doolin and Locke. The pitching staff opened like a whirlwind, and it is going like a whirlwind yet, although I thought it had been torn wide open in the series with the Giants in the last part of May. The Phillies have shown the most consistent form of any team in the League so far. Whether or not they win the pennant depends upon whether they can hold this form or something fairly close to it. Alexander, Seaton, Chalmers and Rixey were the four twirlers who carried the burden in the early part of the traveling. Then Chalmers and Rixey showed signs of declining, and now young Mayer is flashing a lot of good games for his club. Rixey is also working smoothly again, so that Doolin has a quartet of substantial pitchers.

Flight in the Team.
There is more flight in the team than has shown in previous seasons. Knabe, Doolin, Lobert, Magee and Doolin are all scrappy, aggressive players, and are working it. Knabe is a great "crab" and a good ballplayer. He displayed his fighting tendencies when he mixed it with Tinker in Cincinnati last week. I do not approve of such tactics, but they at least show that a player has his heart in the game. It was well earned. The club is hitting well behind good pitching, too. Cravath has been one of the wall-papers of the League this season, and is batting right up at the top. Magee is a reliable stickler, and Ladd, Knabe, Doolin and Lobert are all going better than they did previously. If a couple of the first string men should be injured, Doolin would be badly off for substitutes, but luck has been with the club so far and it may stick throughout the season, in which case the Phillies are going to be a very tough bunch of boys to beat.

Pirates In-and-Outers.
PITTSBURG has been an in-and-out club all season, although on paper the players look as if they should be the steady performers in the league. The pitchers are largely responsible for the bad showing of the team so far, poor catching helping to weaken the wabbling pitching staff. The return of Gibson to the game will strengthen the twirlers. The Pirates showed pretty well against us, however, and the team appeared to have regained some of its normal punch.

The only team of the Western four which appeared to be stronger than it looked when they first invaded the East is the Cincinnati club. The Reds are going more like a ball team now, but they were left so far behind in the first sprint that I hardly believe they have a chance to climb very high this season. I do not see how they can reach the top of the second division, and I cannot picture them in the first division by any chance.

Beans Will Beat Reds.
BOSTON, with its steady plugging, is liable to beat them. But the club has a good punch now and the pitchers are working better, particularly Suggs and Benton, who were regarded as the two mainstays of the staff before the season opened, but who were greatly off color in the early days of the race. Tinker will stop a lot of clubs which are fighting for the pennant between now and September, and it would not surprise me a bit to see him upset some flag-pursuing team in the crisis. The Cubs did not look strong, although they got an even break in the series with the Giants. We should have rolled in with four straight games and it was only bad baseball which beat us out of a cleanup. Evers' pitching staff looked to be worse at present than it did when we beat East Chicago, who did the burden of the early season tolling, is showing the effects of the wear and tear now.

Overall seemed to have recovered his effectiveness for a time when he brought out a debutante spitball, but he wrenched his arm in a game against us and will be out of it for some days. The rest of the club is playing good ball, especially "Gimmie" Archer, who was instrumental in the two defeats which the Giants suffered in Chicago. St. Louis is not going well, and it would not surprise me to see Huggins' team drop below Boston in the final standing of the clubs. There is not the strength in the outfit to keep up a tearing pace. They flashed at first when a couple of pitchers broke out hitting for Wingo, started this round by belting home. Griner sacrificed and owned a single when Brennan sacrificed to second, driving for Hauser. Then Hug sacrificed, but Lobert muffed Brennan's toss and Hauser hurried home.

About 6,000 fans went home happy as a result of Griner's great work. It was the first victory over the Phils in a four-game series, and the second triumph of the week at Robison Field. However, it was well earned, as Griner was forced to pitch brilliant ball to cope.

The Phillies put over three runs in the first round after a series of bad plays, viewing it from Griner's position on the hurling hill. After Paskert had been retired, Doolin beat out a roller to O'Leary. Lobert did likewise, although it did appear that O'Leary's throw had beaten the Philly third sacker. Then Griner hit Magee, driving the bases, Cravath delivered a single, scoring Doolin and Lobert, while Magee came home when Laddus forced Cravath at second.

With two gone in the third, Huggins walked and stole second. The third, Huggins walked and stole second. The third, Huggins walked and stole second. The third, Huggins walked and stole second.

After Cravath had injected his damnable blow in the first frame, Griner belted us and fanned Quavy in his next two trips to the plate. Big Dan was going great guns in the last eight rounds.

Athletics Probably Can't Be Headed in Runaway Race They Are Making in American

In midseason form while most of the other stiffs in the League were still floundering around with a crop of uncertain arms.

Giants Going None Too Well.
THE Giants did not make a particularly encouraging showing on the road and did not climb as I had expected the club would do. When the team got good pitching, had fielding cost us the games. Fromme showed his worth when he won a tough extra inning game in Chicago, in which he was forced to pitch all the way. The team is hitting better than it did when it left home, but it will have to drive along at a terrific pace to overtake the Philadelphia club unless that bunch cracks wide open. Remember we came through with a driving finish in 1911, when all the experts declared we could not grab the championship. There is plenty of fight in my club, and when it is backed up against the wall, it is going to be a hard team to beat. The Phillies still have the longest part of the road to go for a club that has been setting the pace practically all season. The finish is the biggest strain.

Athletics in Runaway.
ANOTHER week of the American League fight has thoroughly convinced me that the Athletics are likely to run away with the flag unless somebody hops on their trail very soon. For a time it seemed as if Cleveland might do the job, but Mack's club got away with 15 straight games. No club in the League seems to be able to stop them. It was predicted that the Athletics would lack pitchers this year. "Connors" has turned up a lot of promising youngsters who are drilling their way through the League in excellent style. With the veterans Bender and Plank at their best, John Coombs, once the backbone of the staff, is scarcely missed. Mack is cleverly jockeying his two veterans and youngsters to get the most possible out of each. The careful observer will have noted that when a young pitcher has worked through five or six innings and the club has attained a lead of two or three runs, Mack hurls Bender or Plank against the enemy to finish out and make it sure. Behind this pitching the players are traveling like fiends. A lot of them missed the world's series money last fall which they had enjoyed for two years. They want it this time. You cannot blame them.

The Cleveland team is making a great fight and is practically the only one left in the running with the Athletics now. Birmingham has injected the scrap into the club, and the men are redoubting everything behind excellent pitching, probably the best in the League. But, as I have said before, Birmingham's team has not the stamina and balance possessed by the Athletics. It might drive out ahead and finish in front on its very nerve, as the American polo team did, but the Philadelphia boys are well equipped with nerve, too, and in their bright lexicon of baseball there is no such word as quit. Mack will let a player go in a minute if he displays any signs of it.

What! Roger a Federal?
DAME RUMOR says that Roger will never be content as a subordinate and that he is to head the Toledo team of the Federal League next year.

Getting Away With Something.
JOHNNY EVERS is the most mysterious manager in either League. If we believe all we read and hear, John has nothing with which to do things; but he is, like the June bug, getting there just the same.

The Cubs were not supposed to have a pitching staff early in the season. At the start, and for some time subsequently, it was heard on every hand that the weak hurling staff of Chicago would last only until Larry Cheney wore out his arm keeping the team up in front.

But more than one-third of the season is over, and the Cubs are still making a good fight of it.

In addition to the aforesaid alleged weak pitching staff, the Cubs Saturday were battling next to last in the League race, and were fielding abominably last. Yet they are running a good third.

What's the answer? Is it that the Cubs' pitching is really good? Or that Evers is one of the tightest little managers in the game for getting results?

Young Man, Go West!
HARRY TRENDALL is going to Erie, Co. immediately after his battle with Eddie Murphy, according to his manager, Helme Stuart. The latter states that Trendall has received and accepted an offer to meet Bud Anderson or Leach Cross, following the settlement of the argument which takes place between this pair July 4 at Los Angeles. The game will be a new one to Trendall, who has not been over a route in a long time. Harry is approaching 25 years old, and has seen many years in the game—at least 10. But he has never been severely punished and has never abused his health seriously. He ought to give some of the Western talent a good ground for a distance, anyway.

No Use for Bresnahan.
ROGER has served Murphy the double purpose for which he was acquired: That is to say, his usefulness in these respects is over. Murphy hired Roger:

To buffalo Archer into acceding to a lower salary than he asked.
To hang around in case Evers failed to make good.

Roger's utility in both respects has fallen down, as Archer immediately raised his demand on Murphy and got it—while Evers has made good as a leader.

The problem of what to do with a second-string catcher advanced in years, who draws somewhere between $666.67 and $10,000, according to varying reports, is one that Murphy is thinking over.

And when Murphy torments his mind over 5, look out for the gullotine.

His Salary a Boomerang.
THAT $10,000 (?) salary of Roger Bresnahan may turn out more of a drawback than a delight. Charles Webb Murphy, who carries excess financial baggage with the same willingness the ordinary man would a centipede, is casting around for a means of getting rid of his high-priced commodity without giving him his release.

But because of that millstone of a salary, no one will have Roger. Brooklyn needed a catcher badly, with first string receiver Erwin out of the fray; but not needing a bank president on its payroll, Ebbets sidestepped Roger and took a youngster named Heekenger.

Rickart May Get Berth With Federal League; Through With Browns

Lloyd H. Rickart, whose resignation as secretary of the Browns, has been accepted by President Hedges, is expected to bob up as secretary of the St. Louis Federal League club. Rickart's connection with the Browns would undoubtedly be a ten-strike for the third leaguers. No big League secretary knows the duties of that office better than Rickart while his middle name is hustler. Rickart's shift to the Feds would undoubtedly attract many of his friends to that park.

SECURITY
LATE SESSION
Wide Losses; London List Irregular.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The irregular reaction on the Stock Exchange was ascribed by Wall Street to the supplementary Supreme Court decision on a number of the state railway rate cases which the Minnesota case, which was decided last Monday."

"In fact, the declines occurred, for the most part, only after the Court's opinion had been rendered. The strong reaction also said, however, that prices were yielding slowly, even during the forenoon, and that a similar reaction displayed itself in the early London and continental markets."

"There were again large offerings of call money both by local and out-of-town banks, but the inquiry from stock market sources was light."

"The result was that the renewal rate was as low as 10 percent. The strong showing made by the bank statement on Saturday had little effect, however, on the rates for time loans."

"The report on the country's agricultural exports during May was somewhat remarkable. Total value of these shipments not only ran nearly $14,000,000 over 1912, but exceeded the May total of all previous history except the two famous 'wheat years,' 1901 and 1903."

"The various cases between the states and the railways, which the Court decided today, in the matter of maximum rates within state borders, were in the main determined beforehand by last week's Minnesota rate decision."

"Like that decision, therefore, today's batch of rulings is immediately in the favor of the states, but in their remoter possible application is against them."

"The point at issue in the present case is interest in today's decisions, was the Supreme Court's basis of setting when rates are and when they are not, unreasonable and confiscatory."

"Here, too, the principle is restated whereby, in the matter of maximum rates, the same maximum rate was pronounced confiscatory as to one railway and not confiscatory as to two others of railways."

"Today's decisions line up the sheep and the goats, on this aspect of the matter, in considerably larger number. But the comment must frankly be made that in view of the actual present state of the railway industry, and of the Federal regulation of it, the discrimination between the two groups of railways accomplishes nothing whatever—except to subject them all to the maximum rate laws of the state."

"Whereas a railway, which the Court says need not reduce its rate, competes with another, which the Court requires to do so, the first-mentioned line must, of course, cut its own rate down or lose its business."

Of Course. HAT is it which a cat and no other animal has? Inquired the teacher. One pupil answered immediately: "Fur!" "Haw-haw!" guffawed another pupil. "Rabbits and moles have fur!" "I know, teacher!" exclaimed No. 2. "Whiskers!" "Haw-haw!"—this from No. 3 again. "Father has whiskers!" "My pa ain't." "Course he hasn't," retorted No. 2. "Haw-haw! Your father's no good! Now, my father—" "Silence!" cried the teacher. "Can't anyone tell me what a cat has which no other animal can have?" A little girl timidly held up her hand. "Well, Eva?" smiled the teacher encouragingly. "Kittens!" replied Eva. And the little girl went to the top of the class.

The Jarr Family

Mr. Jarr is stubborn and insists on buying his own clothes.

By Roy L. McCardell

"NOW, here's a nice suit of clothes," said Mrs. Jarr, as she pointed to a line-cut portrait of a man milliner in a pleated Norfolk blouse. "It says 'You will look just like this picture for $18 if you buy one of our Snappy Suits.' 'Is suicide a sin?' asked Mr. Jarr. But Mrs. Jarr was so busy looking through the advertisements to select a suit for Mr. Jarr that she did not heed him. "Listen," she went on. "Swagger," that's the word. Our tailored-to-suit suits have that touch of insolence that is the denier cri for men who expect personality in apparel. And it says they were made to sell at $40. You must get a suit like that." "Murder," would be a mere misde-manner. The case would be thrown out of court," replied Mr. Jarr. "Please don't talk politics when I am going to all this trouble for you," cried Mrs. Jarr. "This time I have made up my mind that you shall not be imposed upon by those tailors who always go to. They sell you anything they like. I don't see why you don't dress like Jack Silver. His clothes always fit him perfectly, and he always looks as though he has just stepped out of a handbox. And look at YOU!" Mr. Jarr glanced down at himself. "Little Emily dropped jelly cake on me," he murmured. "Little Emma didn't get cat hairs on your shoulder," said Mrs. Jarr, coldly. "The dog chased the cat and the cat jumped on me. The whisk brown will take it off," murmured Mr. Jarr. "Isn't there any way you can keep yourself neat, don't you think?" Mrs. Jarr went on, scornfully. Other men do. Mr. Pinkfinger keeps himself tidy. When he sits to the piano he always draws up his trousers so they won't bag at the knee, and he takes care he doesn't wrinkle his coat-tails by sitting on them on the piano stool. A little care and you could keep yourself looking nice, too!" "If we'd kill the dog so he wouldn't jump on me when I come home, and make the cat treat me as a total stranger, and have the children run and hide when I come in the house and keep away till I have departed, maybe I'd be pressed and creased and unspotted and be able to have that touch of insolence that is the denier cri."

were as careless as you are?" But Mr. Jarr interrupted because he was thoroughly familiar with the remarks that would have followed. "You want to pick out a suit for me?" he asked. "Yes, there is a sale at several of the department stores. These Kampuskut clothes look very stylish. Were $35, now $15." "You're too busy to go down to the stores with me," said Mr. Jarr. "I can attend to it alone." "I can go," replied Mrs. Jarr. "I really haven't the time, as you say, but I'll take it." "Now, look here, dearie," pleaded Mr. Jarr. "Do I go along with you when you are picking a dress pattern? Do I stick around when Mrs. Le Grand is draping a skirt on you? No. So, consequently, I never know what's going on among the neighbors till you tell me. You buy your own clothes and let me buy mine." "If you had any taste I would," replied Mrs. Jarr. "But all the men are wearing patch pockets on their summer suits, and you know you won't get patch pockets."

Points for a Sermon.

THE sexton had been laying the new carpet on the pulpit platform and had left a number of tacks scattered on the floor. "See here, James," said the parson, "what do you suppose would happen if I stepped on one of those tacks right in the middle of my sermon?" "Well, sir," replied the sexton, "I reckon there'd be one point you wouldn't linger on."

The Last Word.

"WELL," said he, anxious to make up their quarrel of yesterday, "aren't you anxious to know what's in this parcel?" "Not very," replied his wife indifferently. "Well, it's something for the one I love best in the world." "Ah, I suppose it's those new col-lars you said you needed."

Proverbs Prove. I will do you no good to make excuses to Invention's mother. Here is the cylogism: Ignorance of the law excuses no one. Necessity knows no law. The mother of invention is necessity. Ergo—The mother of invention excuses none.

Son of Humor. STRICKLAND W. GILLILAN has a 4-year-old son whose pet is a turtle. One day the youngster, after a period of thinking, announced: "I want I was a turtle." "Why?" "Because when I had a pain I could pull my head inside me and look around to see what the trouble was."

Stories St. Louisans Tell

PREXY WILSON'S WASHINGTON SCHOOL.

ALEX. VEST who recently returned from Washington was talking about the change in the capital's aspect since the beginning of the new administration. "The old timers call President Wilson a 'schoolmaster,'" he says, "who has come to Washington with the ideals of Princeton, and they are right. Just as he used to do when he was college president he sends for Congressmen and tells them: 'Boys, we are going to do this and so; that's the new rule, and I hope you will live up to it.' And like a bunch of Freshmen the Congressmen do as he tells them; they think they'd be expelled if they did not obey."

Can You Explain This?

FOUR men met at the club one evening and sat down to play for money. Separate scores were kept by each player. When they ceased playing and came to square accounts they found that each of the four was several dollars richer than when he sat down. None of them had lost.

Unusual.

"DID you mail that letter I gave you this morning?" asked Mrs. Howitzer. "I did!" simply replied Mr. H., and the parrot fell off his perch in astonishment.

All the Concomitants.

M. SUBURBS sat down on some grass that had been spilled on his chair and upset the coffee in his lap at breakfast. On the way to the station he was caught in a heavy rain and drenched.

"If I only had some lemonade now," he observed, "this would be a real picnic."

Schotten's ICETE TEA

The Tea you have been using for HOT Tea becomes a "tea tangle" when ICED. It is harsh and bitter, with a pronounced "Kick."

Schotten's ICETE

is blended—a tea for strength, a tea for flavor and a tea for color. When iced it has that thirst-quenching, mellow pungency that makes it the most satisfying hot weather drink.

SIP IT. Make it strong. Lingering drink, and you'll be DELIGHTED.
